

...the mind and body into a healthy condition, the clothes are of little consequence, however a sick, feeble woman marries, she admits a fraud not only on her husband but on the State. The wedding presents and trousseau really two of the most disgusting features of a refined civilization.

From the Detroit (Mich.) Daily Union.
"The Revolution at home—Revolution abroad—Revolution everywhere. "The Revolution" is out—driven by the tandem team Elizabeth Cady Stanton, Parker Pillsbury and Susan B. Anthony—manager. Women are safe. Mrs Anthony's baby is a good looking, bright, intelligent, "Nationalist" in politics—Educated suffrage, irrespective of sex or color; equal pay to women for equal work; eight-hour labor; abolition of standing armies and party despotisms; down the politician—up with the people. In Religion—deeper thought; broader ideas; science not superstition; personal purity, love to man as well as God, etc. Good say we to the last sentence, and the more the better. Mrs Anthony also makes the refreshing announcement that no quack or immoral advertisements will be admitted. Pillsbury not excepted, we suppose. Financially, she is in favor of expansion. Mrs. Stanton, George Francis Train, and the editors respectively say many things, and say them with ability and good nature. But "The Revolution" is the primary plank of "The Revolution," and its success will be marked in proportion to the extent this idea is or may be popularized among the people. Kansas has just given 9,070 in favor of female suffrage, and negro suffrage advanced this number by 486 votes, out of a total vote of 30,600; more, probably, than any other State would give, so we are not forcibly struck that our better halves will undertake for some time to vote us out, and get better men in our stead. In regard to "quack advertisements" we make no exceptions, and so afraid are we of old-fangled ideas that we have placed Mr. Pillsbury under the care of Kuczowski to have his epileptic part all washed out of him; and when his cold water thunder begins to reverberate through this land, you will find there is a Revolution in truth everywhere, in state, church, home and the editorial chair.

From the Boston Advertiser.
"The Revolution" is the new paper and sensation. (Advocates Woman Suffrage and general reform, and names into the financial question pretty thoroughly.) The of remarkable neatness—are Anthony, Stanton, and Train; and whatever George Francis has anything to do with, is certain to have life and snap in it. For wide-awake reading, on topics within its chosen sphere, "The Revolution" is a model. Subscriptions received at McIntosh & Smith's News Room, Old State House, $2.00 a year.

From the Christian Recorder (Organ of the African Methodist Episcopal Church).
Men, their rights and Nothing More; Women, their rights and Nothing Less.

We have received Vol. 1, No. 2, of a journal with the above title, published in New York city, at $2 per annum. It is printed on fine paper, and in the best style of typography. It is found in its advocacy of Woman's Rights. May success attend it.

"Manhood Suffrage?" "Oh! no, my friend, you mistake us; we have enough of that already. We say not another man, black or white, shall

From the Boston Daily and Weekly Voice.
"The Revolution."—We welcome with much pleasure the appearance of the first number of this new journal of reform. It is a neatly-printed, sixteen-page paper, published by Susan B. Anthony, at 37 Park Row, New York, and edited by Elizabeth Cady Stanton and Parker Pillsbury. It announces that it will advocate educated suffrage, irrespective of sex or color, equal pay to women for equal work, eight hours' labor, and various social and religious reforms. Its articles are able, radical, timely, varied and interesting, striking telling blows upon old error and wrong, and in unison with our own humble sheet. Its appearance is an encouraging sign of the times.

From the Mechanics (N. Y.) Republican.
We have received the first number of a new paper called "The Revolution," published in New York by Susan B. Anthony, with Elizabeth Cady Stanton and Parker Pillsbury as editors. It is a folio of sixteen pages and handsomely gotten up. It is essentially a woman's rights paper; it advocates the eight hour system, and the abolition of standing armies, etc., etc. George Francis Train seems to be the principal character in its make-up, as his name appears more or less in nearly every page. Altogether it is a brightly and interesting paper, and contains considerable important statistical information. Terms $2.00 a year. Address Susan B. Anthony, 37 Park Row (Room 17), New York city. Judging from the number before us, there is not much doubt but every subscriber will get his or her money's worth.

From the Western (N. Y.) Catholic.
"The Revolution."—This is the title of a new weekly, that is to be issued in New York under the auspices of our friend, George Francis Train. We shall look patiently for the first number, to see if George Francis is as mighty with the pen as he is on the platform. From the "Price Current."

"The Revolution."—This is a new aspirant for popularity for his or her opinions. We shall now have an opportunity of witnessing the success or failure of this attempt, by the advocates of Woman's Rights, to conduct an organ in their own way. That it will have a large subscription list, we cannot doubt, for with the perseverance and pertinacity of Miss Anthony will be coupled the individual efforts of thousands of believers in the extreme of every law, and will, therefore, labor earnestly through the columns, and will, therefore, labor earnestly in the common cause.

From the Anti-Slavery Standard.
"Have you heard so long and not learned that a journal should have $100,000 capital and its editor $50,000 per annum? Fortune before he can afford to tell what he thinks?"—Brooklyn speech, Dec. 26.

Wendell Phillips, Editor.

WHAT THE PRESS SAYS OF US.

From the Detroit (Mich.) Daily Union.
"The Revolution at home—Revolution abroad—Revolution everywhere. "The Revolution" is out—driven by the tandem team Elizabeth Cady Stanton, Parker Pillsbury and Susan B. Anthony—manager. Women are safe. Mrs Anthony's baby is a good looking, bright, intelligent, "Nationalist" in politics—Educated suffrage, irrespective of sex or color; equal pay to women for equal work; eight-hour labor; abolition of standing armies and party despotisms; down the politician—up with the people. In Religion—deeper thought; broader ideas; science not superstition; personal purity, love to man as well as God, etc. Good say we to the last sentence, and the more the better. Mrs Anthony also makes the refreshing announcement that no quack or immoral advertisements will be admitted. Pillsbury not excepted, we suppose. Financially, she is in favor of expansion. Mrs. Stanton, George Francis Train, and the editors respectively say many things, and say them with ability and good nature. But "The Revolution" is the primary plank of "The Revolution," and its success will be marked in proportion to the extent this idea is or may be popularized among the people. Kansas has just given 9,070 in favor of female suffrage, and negro suffrage advanced this number by 486 votes, out of a total vote of 30,600; more, probably, than any other State would give, so we are not forcibly struck that our better halves will undertake for some time to vote us out, and get better men in our stead. In regard to "quack advertisements" we make no exceptions, and so afraid are we of old-fangled ideas that we have placed Mr. Pillsbury under the care of Kuczowski to have his epileptic part all washed out of him; and when his cold water thunder begins to reverberate through this land, you will find there is a Revolution in truth everywhere, in state, church, home and the editorial chair.

From the Boston Advertiser.
"The Revolution" is the new paper and sensation. (Advocates Woman Suffrage and general reform, and names into the financial question pretty thoroughly.) The of remarkable neatness—are Anthony, Stanton, and Train; and whatever George Francis has anything to do with, is certain to have life and snap in it. For wide-awake reading, on topics within its chosen sphere, "The Revolution" is a model. Subscriptions received at McIntosh & Smith's News Room, Old State House, $2.00 a year.

From the Christian Recorder (Organ of the African Methodist Episcopal Church).
Men, their rights and Nothing More; Women, their rights and Nothing Less.

We have received Vol. 1, No. 2, of a journal with the above title, published in New York city, at $2 per annum. It is printed on fine paper, and in the best style of typography. It is found in its advocacy of Woman's Rights. May success attend it.

"Manhood Suffrage?" "Oh! no, my friend, you mistake us; we have enough of that already. We say not another man, black or white, shall

From the Boston Daily and Weekly Voice.
"The Revolution."—We welcome with much pleasure the appearance of the first number of this new journal of reform. It is a neatly-printed, sixteen-page paper, published by Susan B. Anthony, at 37 Park Row, New York, and edited by Elizabeth Cady Stanton and Parker Pillsbury. It announces that it will advocate educated suffrage, irrespective of sex or color, equal pay to women for equal work, eight hours' labor, and various social and religious reforms. Its articles are able, radical, timely, varied and interesting, striking telling blows upon old error and wrong, and in unison with our own humble sheet. Its appearance is an encouraging sign of the times.

From the Mechanics (N. Y.) Republican.
We have received the first number of a new paper called "The Revolution," published in New York by Susan B. Anthony, with Elizabeth Cady Stanton and Parker Pillsbury as editors. It is a folio of sixteen pages and handsomely gotten up. It is essentially a woman's rights paper; it advocates the eight hour system, and the abolition of standing armies, etc., etc. George Francis Train seems to be the principal character in its make-up, as his name appears more or less in nearly every page. Altogether it is a brightly and interesting paper, and contains considerable important statistical information. Terms $2.00 a year. Address Susan B. Anthony, 37 Park Row (Room 17), New York city. Judging from the number before us, there is not much doubt but every subscriber will get his or her money's worth.

From the Western (N. Y.) Catholic.
"The Revolution."—This is the title of a new weekly, that is to be issued in New York under the auspices of our friend, George Francis Train. We shall look patiently for the first number, to see if George Francis is as mighty with the pen as he is on the platform. From the "Price Current."

"The Revolution."—This is a new aspirant for popularity for his or her opinions. We shall now have an opportunity of witnessing the success or failure of this attempt, by the advocates of Woman's Rights, to conduct an organ in their own way. That it will have a large subscription list, we cannot doubt, for with the perseverance and pertinacity of Miss Anthony will be coupled the individual efforts of thousands of believers in the extreme of every law, and will, therefore, labor earnestly through the columns, and will, therefore, labor earnestly in the common cause.

From the Anti-Slavery Standard.
"Have you heard so long and not learned that a journal should have $100,000 capital and its editor $50,000 per annum? Fortune before he can afford to tell what he thinks?"—Brooklyn speech, Dec. 26.

Wendell Phillips, Editor.

From the Boston Daily and Weekly Voice.
"The Revolution."—We welcome with much pleasure the appearance of the first number of this new journal of reform. It is a neatly-printed, sixteen-page paper, published by Susan B. Anthony, at 37 Park Row, New York, and edited by Elizabeth Cady Stanton and Parker Pillsbury. It announces that it will advocate educated suffrage, irrespective of sex or color, equal pay to women for equal work, eight hours' labor, and various social and religious reforms. Its articles are able, radical, timely, varied and interesting, striking telling blows upon old error and wrong, and in unison with our own humble sheet. Its appearance is an encouraging sign of the times.

From the Mechanics (N. Y.) Republican.
We have received the first number of a new paper called "The Revolution," published in New York by Susan B. Anthony, with Elizabeth Cady Stanton and Parker Pillsbury as editors. It is a folio of sixteen pages and handsomely gotten up. It is essentially a woman's rights paper; it advocates the eight hour system, and the abolition of standing armies, etc., etc. George Francis Train seems to be the principal character in its make-up, as his name appears more or less in nearly every page. Altogether it is a brightly and interesting paper, and contains considerable important statistical information. Terms $2.00 a year. Address Susan B. Anthony, 37 Park Row (Room 17), New York city. Judging from the number before us, there is not much doubt but every subscriber will get his or her money's worth.

From the Western (N. Y.) Catholic.
"The Revolution."—This is the title of a new weekly, that is to be issued in New York under the auspices of our friend, George Francis Train. We shall look patiently for the first number, to see if George Francis is as mighty with the pen as he is on the platform. From the "Price Current."

"The Revolution."—This is a new aspirant for popularity for his or her opinions. We shall now have an opportunity of witnessing the success or failure of this attempt, by the advocates of Woman's Rights, to conduct an organ in their own way. That it will have a large subscription list, we cannot doubt, for with the perseverance and pertinacity of Miss Anthony will be coupled the individual efforts of thousands of believers in the extreme of every law, and will, therefore, labor earnestly through the columns, and will, therefore, labor earnestly in the common cause.

From the Anti-Slavery Standard.
"Have you heard so long and not learned that a journal should have $100,000 capital and its editor $50,000 per annum? Fortune before he can afford to tell what he thinks?"—Brooklyn speech, Dec. 26.

Wendell Phillips, Editor.

From the Boston Daily and Weekly Voice.
"The Revolution."—We welcome with much pleasure the appearance of the first number of this new journal of reform. It is a neatly-printed, sixteen-page paper, published by Susan B. Anthony, at 37 Park Row, New York, and edited by Elizabeth Cady Stanton and Parker Pillsbury. It announces that it will advocate educated suffrage, irrespective of sex or color, equal pay to women for equal work, eight hours' labor, and various social and religious reforms. Its articles are able, radical, timely, varied and interesting, striking telling blows upon old error and wrong, and in unison with our own humble sheet. Its appearance is an encouraging sign of the times.

From the Mechanics (N. Y.) Republican.
We have received the first number of a new paper called "The Revolution," published in New York by Susan B. Anthony, with Elizabeth Cady Stanton and Parker Pillsbury as editors. It is a folio of sixteen pages and handsomely gotten up. It is essentially a woman's rights paper; it advocates the eight hour system, and the abolition of standing armies, etc., etc. George Francis Train seems to be the principal character in its make-up, as his name appears more or less in nearly every page. Altogether it is a brightly and interesting paper, and contains considerable important statistical information. Terms $2.00 a year. Address Susan B. Anthony, 37 Park Row (Room 17), New York city. Judging from the number before us, there is not much doubt but every subscriber will get his or her money's worth.

From the Western (N. Y.) Catholic.
"The Revolution."—This is the title of a new weekly, that is to be issued in New York under the auspices of our friend, George Francis Train. We shall look patiently for the first number, to see if George Francis is as mighty with the pen as he is on the platform. From the "Price Current."

"The Revolution."—This is a new aspirant for popularity for his or her opinions. We shall now have an opportunity of witnessing the success or failure of this attempt, by the advocates of Woman's Rights, to conduct an organ in their own way. That it will have a large subscription list, we cannot doubt, for with the perseverance and pertinacity of Miss Anthony will be coupled the individual efforts of thousands of believers in the extreme of every law, and will, therefore, labor earnestly through the columns, and will, therefore, labor earnestly in the common cause.

From the Anti-Slavery Standard.
"Have you heard so long and not learned that a journal should have $100,000 capital and its editor $50,000 per annum? Fortune before he can afford to tell what he thinks?"—Brooklyn speech, Dec. 26.

Wendell Phillips, Editor.

From the Boston Daily and Weekly Voice.
"The Revolution."—We welcome with much pleasure the appearance of the first number of this new journal of reform. It is a neatly-printed, sixteen-page paper, published by Susan B. Anthony, at 37 Park Row, New York, and edited by Elizabeth Cady Stanton and Parker Pillsbury. It announces that it will advocate educated suffrage, irrespective of sex or color, equal pay to women for equal work, eight hours' labor, and various social and religious reforms. Its articles are able, radical, timely, varied and interesting, striking telling blows upon old error and wrong, and in unison with our own humble sheet. Its appearance is an encouraging sign of the times.

From the Mechanics (N. Y.) Republican.
We have received the first number of a new paper called "The Revolution," published in New York by Susan B. Anthony, with Elizabeth Cady Stanton and Parker Pillsbury as editors. It is a folio of sixteen pages and handsomely gotten up. It is essentially a woman's rights paper; it advocates the eight hour system, and the abolition of standing armies, etc., etc. George Francis Train seems to be the principal character in its make-up, as his name appears more or less in nearly every page. Altogether it is a brightly and interesting paper, and contains considerable important statistical information. Terms $2.00 a year. Address Susan B. Anthony, 37 Park Row (Room 17), New York city. Judging from the number before us, there is not much doubt but every subscriber will get his or her money's worth.

From the Western (N. Y.) Catholic.
"The Revolution."—This is the title of a new weekly, that is to be issued in New York under the auspices of our friend, George Francis Train. We shall look patiently for the first number, to see if George Francis is as mighty with the pen as he is on the platform. From the "Price Current."

"The Revolution."—This is a new aspirant for popularity for his or her opinions. We shall now have an opportunity of witnessing the success or failure of this attempt, by the advocates of Woman's Rights, to conduct an organ in their own way. That it will have a large subscription list, we cannot doubt, for with the perseverance and pertinacity of Miss Anthony will be coupled the individual efforts of thousands of believers in the extreme of every law, and will, therefore, labor earnestly through the columns, and will, therefore, labor earnestly in the common cause.

From the Anti-Slavery Standard.
"Have you heard so long and not learned that a journal should have $100,000 capital and its editor $50,000 per annum? Fortune before he can afford to tell what he thinks?"—Brooklyn speech, Dec. 26.

Wendell Phillips, Editor.

From the Boston Daily and Weekly Voice.
"The Revolution."—We welcome with much pleasure the appearance of the first number of this new journal of reform. It is a neatly-printed, sixteen-page paper, published by Susan B. Anthony, at 37 Park Row, New York, and edited by Elizabeth Cady Stanton and Parker Pillsbury. It announces that it will advocate educated suffrage, irrespective of sex or color, equal pay to women for equal work, eight hours' labor, and various social and religious reforms. Its articles are able, radical, timely, varied and interesting, striking telling blows upon old error and wrong, and in unison with our own humble sheet. Its appearance is an encouraging sign of the times.

From the Mechanics (N. Y.) Republican.
We have received the first number of a new paper called "The Revolution," published in New York by Susan B. Anthony, with Elizabeth Cady Stanton and Parker Pillsbury as editors. It is a folio of sixteen pages and handsomely gotten up. It is essentially a woman's rights paper; it advocates the eight hour system, and the abolition of standing armies, etc., etc. George Francis Train seems to be the principal character in its make-up, as his name appears more or less in nearly every page. Altogether it is a brightly and interesting paper, and contains considerable important statistical information. Terms $2.00 a year. Address Susan B. Anthony, 37 Park Row (Room 17), New York city. Judging from the number before us, there is not much doubt but every subscriber will get his or her money's worth.

From the Western (N. Y.) Catholic.
"The Revolution."—This is the title of a new weekly, that is to be issued in New York under the auspices of our friend, George Francis Train. We shall look patiently for the first number, to see if George Francis is as mighty with the pen as he is on the platform. From the "Price Current."

"The Revolution."—This is a new aspirant for popularity for his or her opinions. We shall now have an opportunity of witnessing the success or failure of this attempt, by the advocates of Woman's Rights, to conduct an organ in their own way. That it will have a large subscription list, we cannot doubt, for with the perseverance and pertinacity of Miss Anthony will be coupled the individual efforts of thousands of believers in the extreme of every law, and will, therefore, labor earnestly through the columns, and will, therefore, labor earnestly in the common cause.

From the Anti-Slavery Standard.
"Have you heard so long and not learned that a journal should have $100,000 capital and its editor $50,000 per annum? Fortune before he can afford to tell what he thinks?"—Brooklyn speech, Dec. 26.

Wendell Phillips, Editor.

From the Boston Daily and Weekly Voice.
"The Revolution."—We welcome with much pleasure the appearance of the first number of this new journal of reform. It is a neatly-printed, sixteen-page paper, published by Susan B. Anthony, at 37 Park Row, New York, and edited by Elizabeth Cady Stanton and Parker Pillsbury. It announces that it will advocate educated suffrage, irrespective of sex or color, equal pay to women for equal work, eight hours' labor, and various social and religious reforms. Its articles are able, radical, timely, varied and interesting, striking telling blows upon old error and wrong, and in unison with our own humble sheet. Its appearance is an encouraging sign of the times.

From the Mechanics (N. Y.) Republican.
We have received the first number of a new paper called "The Revolution," published in New York by Susan B. Anthony, with Elizabeth Cady Stanton and Parker Pillsbury as editors. It is a folio of sixteen pages and handsomely gotten up. It is essentially a woman's rights paper; it advocates the eight hour system, and the abolition of standing armies, etc., etc. George Francis Train seems to be the principal character in its make-up, as his name appears more or less in nearly every page. Altogether it is a brightly and interesting paper, and contains considerable important statistical information. Terms $2.00 a year. Address Susan B. Anthony, 37 Park Row (Room 17), New York city. Judging from the number before us, there is not much doubt but every subscriber will get his or her money's worth.

From the Western (N. Y.) Catholic.
"The Revolution."—This is the title of a new weekly, that is to be issued in New York under the auspices of our friend, George Francis Train. We shall look patiently for the first number, to see if George Francis is as mighty with the pen as he is on the platform. From the "Price Current."

"The Revolution."—This is a new aspirant for popularity for his or her opinions. We shall now have an opportunity of witnessing the success or failure of this attempt, by the advocates of Woman's Rights, to conduct an organ in their own way. That it will have a large subscription list, we cannot doubt, for with the perseverance and pertinacity of Miss Anthony will be coupled the individual efforts of thousands of believers in the extreme of every law, and will, therefore, labor earnestly through the columns, and will, therefore, labor earnestly in the common cause.

From the Anti-Slavery Standard.
"Have you heard so long and not learned that a journal should have $100,000 capital and its editor $50,000 per annum? Fortune before he can afford to tell what he thinks?"—Brooklyn speech, Dec. 26.

Wendell Phillips, Editor.